In teaching, you get to work with young people and watch them develop on a daily basis.

I enjoyed teaching as I thought teaching was a good way to pass on information to the next generation.

For the college student:

Believe in yourself

Develop a realistic goal

Do something for someone every day

Give more than is required

Respect the other person and his/her property

Enjoy the good things in life

Like what you do.

Presidents' Pages

Dr. J. Thomas Mills served as President of Cumberland University up until December of 1992. We will all remember his famous request "if you're a male act like a gentleman, if you're a female act like a lady."

President Phillips

Without a doubt, Cumberland University is in the midst of one of the most exciting eras in its distinguished 150-year history. During the 1991-92 academic year, the Cumberland Family celebrated the publication of Phoenix Rising! by Dr. G. Frank Burns, the first book chronicling the distinguished history of the University since the 1935 History of Cumberland University was written by Dr. Winstead Payne Bone. We have not only written our history, we have made history with these achievements:

- * Fall Semester 1991 enrollment reached new highs with 780 students;
- * Cumberland's Sesquicentennial Celebration was successfully launched with a birthday party and continued with campus appearances by celebrities and dignitaries;
- * one hundred and nine individual degrees were conferred during Cumberland's 150th Commencement Exercises in May marking the largest university graduating class in our history;
- * Perhaps the greatest source of excitement, the Dallas Floyd Recreation Center, was begun with completion expected by the end of the 1992 Fall Semester and during this Sesquicentennial year.
- * Gifts to the University by members of the entire Cumberland University family were unparalleled in Cumberland's history.

It has been a milestone year. It has been an exciting year. I think of all of us as members of the Cumberland Family are fortunate to be a part of this great and growing force which is Cumberland University.

Dean's Office

Dean William McKee is a very valuable person to the Cumberland University Faculty & Staff. He serves not only as Dean of the school but is also a professor in the school of education. His many duties include being responsible for the college's accreditation being updated when needed. Dean McKee also serves as Vice-President of Cumberland and was a wonderful reassurance to the students during the change of Presidents. Thank you Dean McKee.

George Daniel has many responsibilities as Dean of students. He is a member of the faculty who teaches in the School of Business. He serves as sponsor for the Student Council and Alpha Chi Honor Society. He is in charge of housing as well as university housing. Thank you Mr. Daniel for all you do.

Dr. Connie Wright serves as Director of Student Activities. She counsels in career, academic, and personal areas. She is supervisor of tutoring services and NAIA athletic eligibility. Dr. Wright certifies graduation certificates and state license for majors such as education ones. Dr. Connie Wright is also a psychology professor at Cumberland. Thank you for all you contribute!

Clemson, winner of the Atlantic Coast Conference, has matched to play California in the nationally televised Citrus Bowl on New Year's Day. As a matter of fact, at least three of Cumberland University's former football opponents are playing in major postseason bowl games this year. Besides Clemson the list includes Florida State and of course Georgia Tech.

For the record, Cumberland has beaten two of the three and tied Clemson in the first postseason football game played in the South. The event, to determine the Southern championship, was played on Thanksgiving Day 1903, and billed as the Southern Bowl. The game was arranged by Coach John Hiesman of Georgia Tech.

While Cumberland may have beaten Florida State and Georgia Tech in some years, history notes that they certainly didn't win every time. In 1916 on a fall day in October, it is recorded that Cumberland University played Georgia Tech in Atlanta and was defeated by a score of 222-0, the worst defeat ever suffered by a school in collegiate history.

During its almost 150 years, Cumberland University has had its moments of glory both on and off the athletic field.

Today the private, four-year co-educational liberal arts university, has an enrollment of 494 full time students, 270 part time students and 35 graduate students.

Its faculty of 80 members boasts a student-teacher ratio of about 14 to 1. Approximately 50 members of the school's faculty hold doctoral degrees.

In the paragraphs that follow, Dr. Frank Burns, a Cumberland alumnus, former faculty member, historian, author and former editor of this newspaper, outlines the school's distinguished record:

By Dr. Frank Burns:

Cumberland University was founded in Lebanon, Tennessee, in 1842. Since then there have been more 15,000 graduates, and even more individuals who have attended for at least two school terms. More than 5,000 are living today.

As recently as 1971, only Harvard University had a higher percentage of its graduates listed in "Who's Who in America."

Among the graduates of Cumberland are: A U.S. Secretary of State, who is called the Father of the United Nations, and who also received the Nobel Peace Prize. Three writers who received a Pulitzer Prize. Two Justices of the U.S. Supreme Court. A justice of the highest court of law in Japan. A chief judge of the U.S. Court of Claims. More than 100 members of the U.S. House of Representatives. More than 50 college and university presidents. Nearly two dozen governors and U.S. Senators. Ministers and ambassadors to Ecuador, Finland and Brazil. Seven general officers of the Army. A president of Rotary International. A president of the National Association of Manufacturers. A dean of Columbia University. A founder of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. The historian of Kappa Sigma fraternity. The national secretary of the Knights of Pythias. The head of all the major Masonic bodies of Tennessee. A noted American poet. A musician included in the Walk of Stars. A finalist for the NASA Teacher-In-Space program.

Activities

Student Life

The students at Cumberland have very busy lifestyles. Most students can be found studying diligently in the Vise Library while some may be found studying and socializing a bit in the student lounge of Memorial Hall and in one of the residence halls. Students can unwind by going down to the Student Center and playing a game of ping pong, playing a video game, working out in the fitness center, or just relaxing with a program on the center's large screen television.

Terry Thompson and Judith Ballard are all smiles at one of CV's famous dances.

The student lounge is full of activity as students prepare assignments, watch television or just socialize.

The Dining Hall remains a center for students to be able to get away from class and enjoy food and friends.

Campus Life

Q

Students are not simply bound to their studies all the time. Most everyone finds a way to divert themselves to some sort of activity or two whether it be at the bowling lanes, gathering at friend's house or apartment, going to the movies, or by going to a popular hangout called Tracer's. It is here that the now famous college-oriented musician Tall Paul plays when in the Lebanon area. Everyone enjoys listening to Paul's rendition of classics from such artists as Jimmy Buffet and The Eagles.

Halloween Dance

This year the Student Council held another successful Halloween Dance for the student body to enjoy. As always, the Cumberland Students were found in costumes that ranged from the scary to humorous to the just outright silly. Scott Lester won the costume contest dressed as . Everyone had a

ORIENTATION ACTIVITIES —

The beginning of each new school year brings about several things on the Cumberland University campus, new faces, new ideas, and several activities designed to promote college life as a positive time in the lives of young adults. This past year as always the Matriculation Convocation was held on the first Sunday of the Fall semester. In this ceremony, the entering freshmen were introduced to their professors and were given Matriculation certificates.

Also in the first week of school, The Baptist Student Union held the Orientation Cookout for everyone to enjoy some good food and a little friendly fellowship.

Christmas At Cumberland

For the second year Cumberland University hosted Christmas at Cumberland. This event was headed by music director Dr. Phillip Griffin. Everyone enjoyed the beautiful scenery that was created by the music students. The Dining Hall was transformed into a scenic "Winter Wonderland" with a huge Christmas tree with several gifts underneath. The night began with Christmas stories told by the students and ended with the music students singing a variety of old standards along with newer, more modern tunes.

Pumpkin Carving Contest

The Student Council held their annual Halloween Pumpkin Carving contest in the Dining Hall. Several Cumberland Students participated in the event. Each had the difficult task of creating a "work of art" that would both scare and look creative. Cafeteria Cook Bobby Moore judged the event. When all was said and done,

Greek Night

Sigma Delta Sigma presented the fourth annual Greek Night in the Dining Hall this past fall. The ladies donned their togas and escorted the male contestants who were dressed to kill in the "finest" dresses and outfits. Everyone was entertained by the appearance and the antics of these crazy "ladies." Jonathan Smith won the contest with Larry Taylor placing second. The fun-filled night made everyone look forward to next year's festivities.

Unforgettable Moments

Cumberland University held its Homecoming ceremonies on February 15, 1992. The event took place at Lebanon High School. Various organizations sponsored a young lady to represent their group. Ashley Kippes, the $\Sigma\Delta\Sigma$ nominee received second runner up, Angie Abbott, representing Kappa Sigma Fraternity was named first runner up. The ceremonies drew to a close when the baseball team's representative, Ms. Lacresha Colton was crowned the 1992 Homecoming Queen.

Graduation

This year, the University held its 150th annual commencement activities on May 3rd, 1992. The beautiful day set the stage for a monumental and memorable day for the 104 graduates and their families and friends.

The event drew considerable attention by not only having the largest number of graduates in recent history, but it also awarded two well-known figures with honorary degrees. Lee Greenwood was given the degree of Doctor of Humanities because of his outstanding dedication to the music industry and to society. In acceptance, he sang his trademark song, "God Bless the U.S.A." Congressman and former C.U. President Robert N. Clement received the degree of Doctor of Literary Letters due to his loyalty to the University and the State of Tennessee. Congressman Clement also was the keynote speaker for the commencement exercises. The momentous occasion was appropriate for the historical sesquicentennial year of Cumberland University.

We were very proud of our second ann football season as we improved our record to four wins and six losses. This is a good record for new programs.

With another good recruiting year, and the growth and maturing of our returning players, we anticipate a continued progress in our new program.

Volleyball

The Cumberland University Volleydaws finished their season with a 28-13 record, breaking their record of 27-15 last year for the most wins in a season. The volleydaws also took first place in the Tennessee Collegiate Athletic Conference.

Coach Dwayne Deering, who was named TCAC Coach of the Year, said, "We had a fantastic year and I am so proud of how hard the girls worked. Our team played a tougher schedule this year and had less matches and we still broke last year's record. We wanted to win the conference title and we achieved that goal."

Cumberland took the conference title after their win over Trevecca Nazarene on November 12. The Volleydaws then traveled to Milligan for the District 24 Tournament November 15-16. They played three matches before being eliminated.

Several members of the team were selected for special conference honors. Holly Thomas and Twandra Robinson were selected to the first team All-Conference while Debbie Ford was named to the second team All-Conference. Kathy Palk and Tishara Martin were named to the All-Tournament team. Three players were named as Academic All-Conference Scholar Athletes — Kathy Palk, Chrystal Spivey and Ginger Carrigan.

"We are going to miss our senior players, Holly Thomas, Debbie Ford and Lara Hunt, but we are already looking forward to another great season next year," said Deering.

Organizations

Student Council

The Student Council at Cumberland University consists of nine students elected by the student body. Roger Amos was elected as President of the council along with Jana Wallace as Vice President and Cindy Locke as Secretary and Treasurer. In the Fall of 1991 three commuters and three residents were elected as Student Council Senators. These nine students along with advisor George Daniel work to provide activities for student's enjoyment throughout the year.

Some of the most outstanding events Student Council is responsible for include orientation week, Basketball Homecoming, and Spring Formal. Other Sponsored activities include guest speakers, blood drives, dances each month, talent shows, and open input forums where students are able to voice their concerns and suggestions about the school to the administrative staff. The Student Council is funded by the full time students' activity fees. This year's senators were Julia Cawthon, Scott Lester, Kathy Palk, Charlie Pollard, Terry Thompson, and Chris Walls.

projects. The organization instills a sense of responsibility and work ethics in its members. The association has a steering committee that acts as officers which include Roger Amos, Kellie Hamilton, Cindy Locke, Terry Thompson, and Jana Wallace.

Cumberland Collegian

The 1991-92 Cumberland Collegian staff has had many trials this year but we've all seemed to make it through in pretty good shape. We had quite a number of new editions to the staff, as well as a new faculty sponsor in Roger Karl. This year's staff has been hard working and a pleasure to work with.

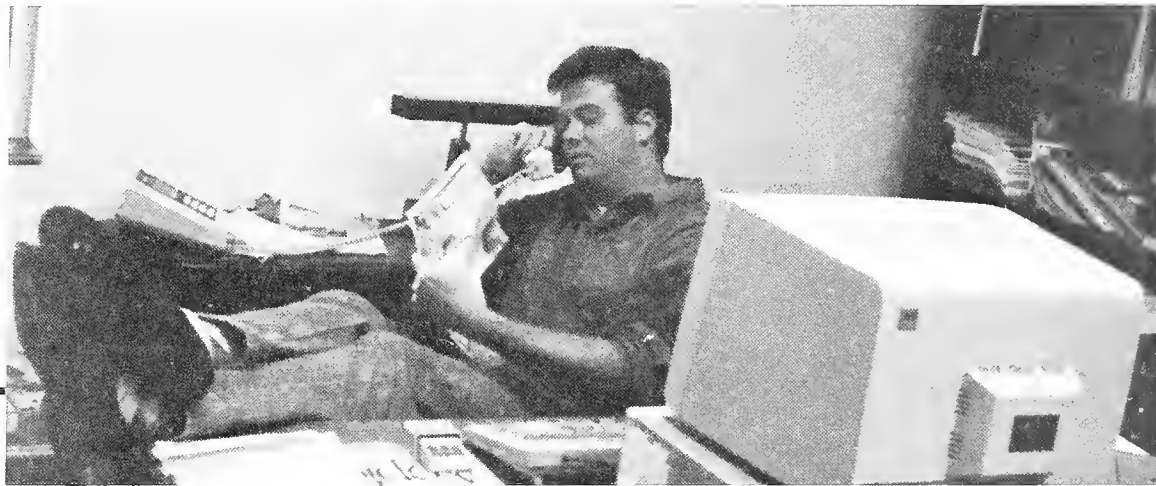

As the school year began, the staff set some goals that they hoped to see accomplished by the end of the academic year. The first goal was to bring some advertisement to the paper. By the second issue, we had ten local advertisers, which was an outstanding accomplishment. Our second goal was to increase the number of pages in the paper from those in the past. This too was accomplished by the November issue. Our third, final and most important goal was to produce a quality paper with stories and issues that the students of CU wanted to read about. Although there were problems along the way, (there always are) we saw much progress and positive change that hopefully will continue in the future.

The Staff has worked really hard this year and so have our advisors, Roger Karl and Wanda Candella. Without them our great strides would not have been possible.

— Chris Walls, Editor

Lance Roy takes a break from all the work he's been doing for the Collegian.

Chris Walls, editor of the Collegian, works diligently on an upcoming story.

The Collegian staff puts in a lot of time and effort into making their newspaper the best it can be.

Although putting the newspaper together may be hard, it is very rewarding when it comes out.

When writing an article for the paper, getting started is the hardest part.

Baptist Student Union

The BSU, or the Baptist Student Union, gives students a chance for some spiritual inspiration at school. This organization meets on Wednesdays From 11:00 to 12:00. The club hosts guest speakers, singers, concerts, and retreats such as the one they took to Gatlinburg. The BSU is a wonderful club or organization to join if you are interested in growing spiritually and fellowshiping with others.

Student Tennessee

STEA, the Student Teacher Education Association, is an organization for future teachers. Members attend yearly conventions and rallies and sponsor several local activities.

During the Fall semester, the group visits hospitals at Halloween and collects food for families. Members also donate to Toys for Tots for children at Christmas. During the Spring semester, the group hosts spelling bees and plans Easter egg hunts for the local children.

On Campus, the STEA holds monthly fundraising bake sales and decorates the STEA bulletin board. The group also honors teachers during National Education Week and occasionally hosts education officials.

STEA is an important part of the Cumberland campus because it allows future teachers to make friends for today and learn skills for tomorrow.

Sigma Delta Sigma

Sigma Delta Sigma was a sorority that existed on Cumberland University's campus in 1926. The club was changed to a ladies society in 1942 when the baptist church took control of the school. The memories and ideas were lost until the Fall of 1988 when many of the University's women became interested in forming a social club. These girls pursued the idea and Sigma Delta arose from the ashes to reform in the spring of 1989. The quest for a national sorority was in mind when the group was formed and now the members are still pursuing that dream. A dream that may become true before long.

Sigma Delta Sigma is not just a social club. The members work hard to host events for the entire school. They have their annual Greek night each Fall and then the Wild Thing in the Spring. The sisters in the sorority all share a special bond and friendships are made that last a lifetime.

Tennessee Intercollegiate State Legislature

T.I.S.L. Members are Cindy Locke, J.J. Stribling, and Maggi McLean.

One weekend before Thanksgiving, all the colleges and universities in the state of Tennessee get together for four days and pretend to be the Tennessee State Legislature. The Tennessee Intercollegiate State Legislature, or TISL for short, has taken place in Nashville every year for the past 25 years. On this silver anniversary of the organization, there was plenty of excitement planned.

Through TISL, a student is given the opportunity to see how government really works. There are many different types of individuals representing nearly every TN campus present. The environment of the capital can be an overwhelming experience at first; but after four days of living and breathing legislative red tape, one may feel right at home.

Cindy Locke, Chris Walls, J.J. Stribbling, and Maggi McLean represented Cumberland. Cindy, Chris, and J.J. sat in the House of Representatives, while Maggi resided in the Senate. Great experiences were had by all; J.J. and Cindy can't wait until next year.

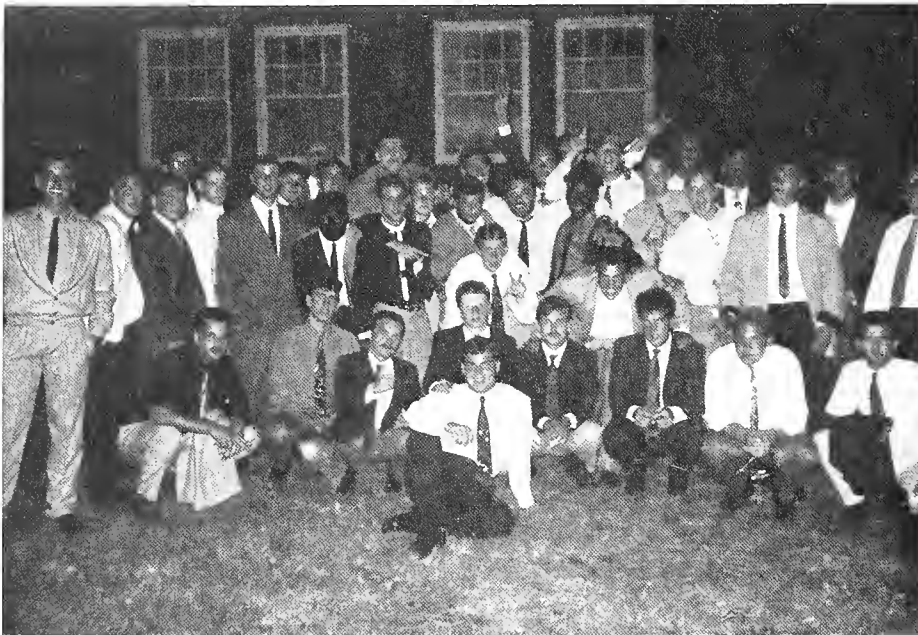

Kappa Sigma

Kappa Sigma evolved from an ancient European student society founded upon the ideal of mutual benefit for the membership. This same ideal was the basis for five students at the University of Virginia to found the Kappa Sigma Fraternity in 1869. Kappa Sigma has since grown to become one of the largest fraternities in North America. Members are chosen by each individual chapter for the contribution they can make to the chapter while, at the same time, benefitting from the fraternity experience.

In March of 1991, the local fraternity at Cumberland was awarded a colony of Kappa Sigma. Since that time, the fraternity has worked hard to achieve its goal which is to become a national chapter of Kappa Sigma. This year, the fraternity had a highly successful rush in which 30 men were pledged into the colony. Throughout the year, the fraternity participated in several community and school projects. During Halloween, the Fraternity helped out in a local Haunted House. Other events throughout the year included helping the United Way, having Car Washes, promoting a School-Wide Alcohol Awareness Program, and holding The 2nd Annual Dunk Fest.

Football Cheerleaders

Lots of hard work started early in the summer for this 1991 football season. Each girl put in numerous hours of practice, fund raising, practice, planning, practice, dancing, and yes more practice.

We planned activities such as selling candy and stickers for fund raisers, pep rallies, and preparing the banner for each home game. Of course the away games all of which we traveled were lots of fun.

Cheering for the 1991 Football season took a lot of hard work and dedication, but each of us agreed that it was well worth the sweat and hard work put in by each individual in the end. — Captain, Lisa Eubanks

Basketball Cheerleaders

The 1991-1992 Basketball cheerleaders have really worked hard this year. They have practiced in classrooms and various places outdoors because there was no other places available to practice and get ready for the games. They have spent many long hours working on their upcoming dance routines.

I am very proud of our cheerleaders. They have been a delight to work with and have shown great sportsmanship. They have cheered with the utmost spirit and pride for our basketball teams.

Congratulations Basketball Cheerleaders! You have done a great job this year. You should be very proud of yourselves. — Coach, Penny Simmons

From its studio, located inside Memorial Hall, it consists of Christian Contemporary music and devotional segments, as well as hourly news and weather reports.

Future plans for WFMQ include a live broadcast, the use of students to plan programming and to be the air personalities, and conduct local programs involving Cumberland University personnel and members of the community.

The WFMQ staff includes: Front row: April "Rose" Henley, Kim "O'Neal From Mobile" Hackbarth, Tiffany Cunningham. Middle row: Josh "Nature Boy" Counce, Kit Jenkins, Lance Roy "Orbison", Chris "Bam Bam" Walls, Mary Carol "MCPebbles" Adcock, Terry "Rockin' T" Thompson. Science Club

At the first meeting of the Science club, Dr. Bryan, who is our sponsor, opened the voting process. Daniel Coen was elected president, Diane Petzoldt, vice-president and Kim Moore was elected to serve the dual role of secretary and treasurer. Dues for membership in the organization were set at $5.00.

The Science club has worked thus far on two projects. The first was to let the administration of the University know our concerns for the upkeep of laboratory materials. The second and ongoing project is the recycling of aluminum cans. We have been asking all students to make an effort to help the future of the world.

— Daniel Coen, President

Drama Club

The Cumberland University Drama Club has had an exciting year. In its second year, membership more than doubled, and monthly meetings were enlivened by guest speakers. This year the Drama Club gained statewide recognition by becoming a member of the College Division of the Tennessee Theatre Association. The really exciting event this year, however, was the production of the University's first play in fifteen years. After weeks of rehearsals, students performed Bull in a China Shop, a three act comedy. A good time was had by cast and audience

Cumberland Voices

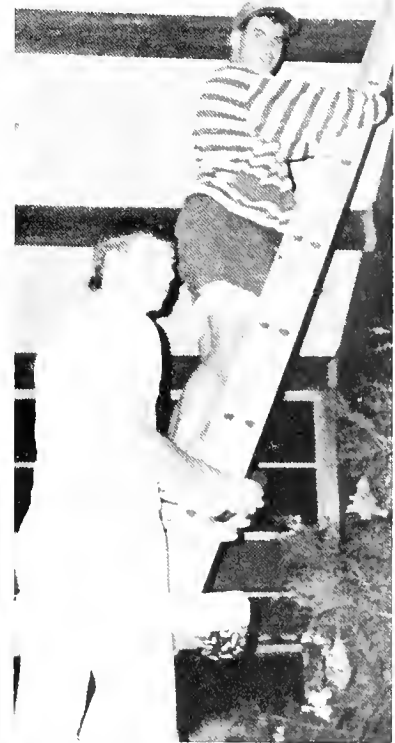

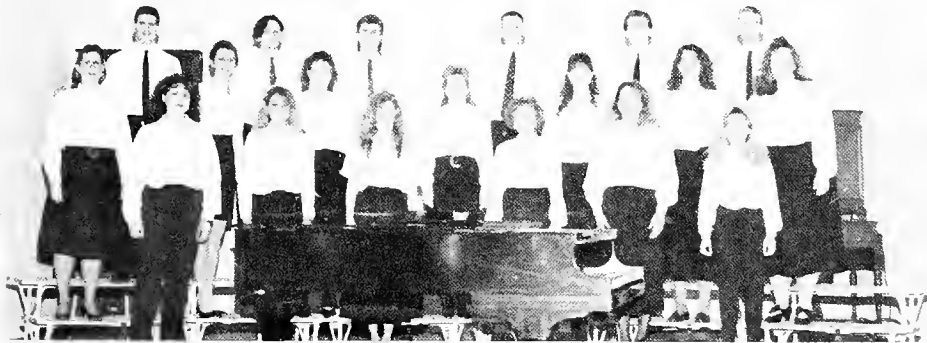

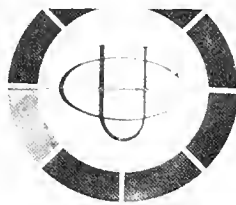

The Cumberland Voices are a very talented group of individuals who meet three times a week in the fall semester. They prepare diligently for their annual production

"Cumberland Sings Christmas" which is presented prior to finals. Their production is one that is enjoyed not only by the students of Cumberland University, but also by the community which surrounds it. A special thank you goes out to Dr. Griffin and the singers for providing us with such a wonderful tradition of Christmas celebrations.
